Suspect identified in Walmart bank robbery

Police: Man robbed bank inside Picayune's Walmart an hour after crime in Waveland Waveland Police Chief David Allen speaks to investigators on Wednesday after a robbery at the Woodforest National Bank inside Walmart.

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Police have tentatively identified a suspect in the Wednesday afternoon robbery of the bank inside Waveland Walmart.

Waveland police, assisted by other agencies including the Hancock County Sheriff's Office, are investigating a robbery at the Woodforest National Bank inside Waveland Walmart. Waveland Police Chief David Allen said authorities believe the same suspect robbed the bank inside Picayune Walmart a short time later on Wednesday.

Picayune Assistant Chief Jeremy Magri told reporters on Friday morning that police are looking for Terry Madison III, 22, of New Orleans on an active warrant for robbery.

Magri said Madison was driving a white 2010 Dodge Avenger with a Louisiana license plate 632-BCS when he reportedly robbed the Picayune Walmart's money center at 3:56 p.m. Wednesday.

Surveillance video from both stores seem to indicate it was the same man in both robberies, using the same method.

Waveland Walmart surveillance image of the man who robbed the Woodforest National Bank branch inside the store. Police have tentatively identified the man as New Orleans resident Terry Madison, III, age 22.

"At approximately 2:50 p.m. (Wednesday), a small white sedan pulled in from Hwy. 90 near Taco Bell and parked by Game Stop," Allen said Wednesday. "A black male wearing a red hoodie and white long pants then got out and walked through Walmart for a few minutes, during which time he shoplifted a white backpack from the store. He then went to one of the tellers at the Woodforest Bank located in the store and indicated to a teller that he had a weapon. He was given an undisclosed amount of cash and then left the store and got back into the white sedan, which had another person driving. The vehicle then left via the exit by Taco Bell and went Westbound on Highway 90."

"No one was hurt and a weapon was not displayed," Allen said.

AG: Hancock can't move ahead on jail clinic proposal

Not because of nepotism, but because it doesn't meet state statutory regulations

The state Attorney General's office opined this week that the Hancock County Board of Supervisor's could not legally approve Sheriff Ricky Adam's recommendation to hire Casey Favre as director of inmate services -- not because of any potential nepotism issues, but because, statutorily, the sheriff isn't allowed to create the position.

At its March 5 meeting, the board of supervisors voted to approve Adam's plan to hire Favre for the position, contingent on an AG's opinion that it would meet all state statutory requirements.

Adam said the proposal should save the county about $80,000 a year.

The move sparked some controversy for a few reasons, including the $115,000 salary; the fact that Favre is currently the president of the Bay-Waveland School Board of Trustees -- a "separation of powers" issue; and the fact that he is the son of Mayor Mike

Bay woman will soon be reunited with her father, 21 years after he was deported to India

BY GEOFF BELCHER

Bay St. Louis resident Brittany Gill's idyllic childhood was shattered when she was seven years old. That's when U.S. immigration officials arrested her father -- who had been living in the country legally for more than a decade -- and deported him back to India, leaving Brittany, her mother and younger brother to fend for themselves. Now, more than 21 years later, Brittany is about to get her father back.

"He should be here by the end of the Brittany, her brother Matthew and their mother Melissa are all natural-born U.S. citizens. They moved to Hancock County in 2015.

Today, Brittany is an esthetician for Pharmacy of Diamondhead and Renewing Touch Therapy. She lives in Bay St. Louis with her partner and their two children.

Alice Moseley Folk Art Museum in Bay has new look, new mission and new festival series

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

After weeks of renovations, the Alice Moseley Folk Art Museum in Bay St. Louis is "bigger and better than ever," organizers say.

"We have also redesigned the layout of the museum so it tells more of the story of Miss Alice's creative evolution as an artist," museum Marketing Director Shannon Wooten said Thursday.

The late Alice Latimer Moseley – better known to many in Bay St. Louis as "Miss Alice" – was a nationally-acclaimed folk artist, humorist and storyteller. She began painting at age 65 as a way of coping with the stress of caring for her mother, who was afflicted with Alzheimer's disease. Alice lived from 1909-2004.

Her son Tim Moseley opened the museum in her former home, "The Blue House," at 214 Bookter St. across from the Depot. The museum board made the decision to move it late in 2012 and began the laborious process of moving everything into the Depot, where the museum celebrated its grand re-opening in early March 2013.

Now, five years later, Miss Alice's legacy is a booming tourist attraction for Bay St. Louis, featuring more than 50 original folk art paintings, antique furniture, pottery and art glass.

A video of an interview with the late artist plays on a constant loop.

"We invite everyone to tour the museum and then sit down and listen to Miss Alice and feel at home," Wooten said.

Lilyana Gandour, the museum's art coordinator, said the museum has also expanded its mission to become a resource and display space for other local artists and crafters.

"We encourage local artist to pursue their dreams and hone their artistic abilities," Gandour said. "We will have after-hours events to allow people to meet the artists and let the artists mingle with the public, as well as hosting their paintings and pottery and sculptures. People will get to see the artists and get to know their stories and what inspires them."

"We're bringing Miss Alice into the 21st century," Wooten said. "We want to become a resource for the entire community. We are not just a museum that promotes Miss Alice. We are a museum that promotes folk art and the ability to transform folk art into Coast art. We're here for the whole community."

The museum will also offer group meeting space, when it's needed.

The museum will also soon begin a new series of free music and art festivals. The first installment is scheduled for June 16, to be headlined by the group Blue Magnolia.

Admission to the Alice Moseley Folk Art & Antique Museum is always free -- Miss Alice wanted everyone to be able to enjoy her work, regardless of their financial situations, Wooten said.

Free hosted group tours are also available.

The SALT Council, Hancock County Sheriff's Office and the Hancock County Senior Center will host the annual Senior Health and Information Fair on Wednesday May 9 at the Bay St. Louis Community Center.

This year, more than 30 vendors are expected to attend with informational and health screening booths, Hancock County Senior Director Arlene Johnson said.

About 20 home health agencies will be represented and there will be representatives from Pearl River Opportunity, who can provide financial aid with seniors' utility bills, Johnson said.

Other vendors include: Walgreens, Riemann's Funeral Home, Ochsner Health System-Hancock, Dunbar Village, Medicare/Medicaid, and South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

Several downtown Bay St. Louis merchants are expected to attend, as well, Johnson added.

There will be free blood pressure and health screenings and door prizes, Johnson said. The fee for agencies to participate was one door prize, she said.

The event is free for senior citizens and a complimentary meal will be served, Johnson said.

"Our senior citizens are Hancock County's most prized possession," Johnson said.

Anyone interested in hosting an informational table can contact Candy Brister at 228-209-8729 or Johnson at 228-467-9292. Johnson said spaces are still available.

The Hancock County Senior Citizens Center is located at 601 Bookter St. in Bay St. Louis.

AG Jim Hood alerts Mississippi consumers about computer scams

SEA COAST ECHO

JACKSON—A pop-up alert on your computer that appears to be a technical support message could be an effort to steal your personal information, warned Attorney General Jim Hood.

The Consumer Protection Division in the Attorney General's Office has seen a recent increase in these types of scams, where tech support scammers use pop-ups that resemble security alerts from Microsoft, Apple, or other companies. The alerts warn that the user's computer is hacked or infected with viruses. Some pop-ups even feature a countdown clock, supposedly showing the time remaining before the hard drive will be fried—unless the consumer calls a toll-free number supposedly affiliated with one of those big-name companies.

Do not call that number—instead, shut your computer down immediately. When a person calls that number, scammers may pose as a security, customer, or technical support representative offering to resolve such issues as a compromised email or bank account, a virus on a computer, or to assist with a software license renewal.

"Once a person gets on the phone, that's when they become most vulnerable to these con artists," explained General Hood. "The operators instruct you to go to your computer and hit certain keys or links. When you do this, you are giving the scammers 'remote access' or control of your computer, which allows them to access your personal information and online accounts."

The scammers claim that they need "remote access" or control of your computer to run tests that they claim reveal grave problems that can only be solved by one of their "certified technicians" for a hefty fee. Do not give access to your computer unless you are speaking with a trusted source whom you voluntarily contacted. In this type of scam, high-pressure tactics are used to strong-arm consumers into paying hundreds of dollars for unnecessary repairs, anti-virus protection or software, and other products and services.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PROTECTION

Remember that legitimate customer, security, or tech support companies will not initiate unsolicited contact with individuals.

Install ad-blocking software that eliminates or reduces pop-ups and malvertising (online advertising to spread malware).

Be cautious of customer support numbers obtained via open source searching (searching for phone numbers on the internet).

Recognize fraudulent attempts and cease all communication with the scammer.

Resist the pressure to act quickly. Scammers will urge you to act fast to protect your device. The scammers create a sense of urgency to produce fear and lure you into immediate action.

Do not give unknown, unverified persons remote access or control of devices or accounts.

Ensure all computer anti-virus, security, and malware protection is up to date.

IF YOU ARE A VICTIM

If you receive a pop-up or locked screen, shut down the device immediately. Ignore any pop-ups instructing to not power off or restart the computer. Shutting down the device and waiting a short time to restart may cause the pop-up or screen lock to disappear.

Do not re-contact fraudulent tech scam companies. Expect additional fraudulent calls as these companies often share their customer database information.

Should a criminal gain access to a device or an account, you should take precautions to protect your identity. Immediately contact financial institutions to place protection on accounts as well as change passwords and actively monitor accounts and personal information for suspicious activity.

You should also have your device inspected by a trusted professional to determine whether any malware or viruses exist and/or whether your hard drive should be wiped clean and the operating system reinstalled.

Contact the AG's Consumer Protection Division at 601-359-4230 or 800-281-4418.

Genetic testing could save millions and improve care

Mississippi Spends about $350 million dollars a year on prescription drugs through its Medicaid program.

Unfortunately, a huge percentage of that money is wasted because the drugs don't work. A mouth swab genetic test could fix that, but progress is slow in our state.

Expensive drugs such as statins, diabetes medications, blood thinners, antidepressives and the like are covered under Mississippi Medicaid but the genetic tests that can determine whether they work aren't covered.

More progressive states such as Texas and Georgia have figured this out. As a result, the right medications are getting prescribed to the right people. Mississippi should do the same. It could save a hundred million dollars a year and vastly increase the health of hundreds of thousands of patients.

We all know about genetic testing. It's producing new miracles every year. Now a genetic test done by swabbing the cheek of your mouth can determine what medications will work for you and which ones won't.

The results are staggering. As it turns out, about a third of the prescriptions are ineffective because of genetic variances among individuals. Worse, they cause bad side effects.

A recent Mayo Clinic study regarding depression found a 70 percent improvement in results when genetic testing was done to determine what drugs would work best with what patient.

It has to do with enzymes in the liver. About half of all drugs must be synthesized by enzymes in the liver to work. If you don't have the right enzyme, the drug will not only not work, it will cause bad side effects.

About a third of the people lack the right level of enzymes for many of the best selling drugs to work, so a third of the money spent on prescription drugs is wasted. A genetic test, costing anywhere from $1,200 to $1,800 can fix that by identifying which patients have which enzymes. No doubt the cost will come down as time goes on.

I have personal experience with this. My son was given medications relating to autism. His condition dramatically worsened, precipitating a crisis.

I was blessed to have a close friend, Bob Crisler, who has a company in the genetic testing business. He walked me through the process and got me to insist that the psychiatrist do the genetic testing. As it turned out, my son lacked enough enzymes to metabolize the drug. Not only was the drug not helping, it was hurting. With the test results in hand, I insisted that his medica-

Wicker Encouraged by Tax Law's Attention to Community Success

Incentives Promise to Pave the Way for New Opportunities in Mississippi

There are plenty of reasons for businesses to come to Mississippi, but the new tax law just added another one. One hundred communities in our state have been designated as Qualified Opportunity Zones, which means those who choose to invest there will be eligible for tax relief.

The designation of these zones by the Treasury Department and Internal Revenue Service helps communities grow and add jobs. The initiative will allow individuals and corporations to defer capital gains taxes by returning the proceeds in an Opportunity Fund. The Opportunity Fund would directly capitalize businesses to grow the local economy and improve the quality of life for residents of the designated Opportunity Zones.

I am glad the "Tax Cuts and Jobs Act" recognized the importance of cultivating job-creating development in our communities, particularly those in rural and impoverished areas. The creation of Qualified Opportunity Zones can ensure that investment goes to the areas that need it most. All of Mississippi's

FROM THE SENATE

by Roger Wicker
U.S. SENATOR

nomi-nated communities were awarded this advantageous designation.

Tax incentives are not the only drivers of business growth in Mississippi. We are home to a ready and skilled workforce across a number of different industry sectors. The cost of living is low, and we know how to work together at the local, state, and federal levels to foster an environment in which job creators can succeed. Tax relief further sweetens the deal.

Train Stop in Marks Becomes a Reality

The designation of our Qualified Opportunity Zones joins a number of revitalization efforts helping to bring about change across the state. One is the long-awaited passenger rail stop in Marks. For more than two decades, this city and Quitman County have worked to restore this service, which could serve some 200,000 residents across a nine countyregion. I was pleased three years ago when a deal for the stop was reached by Quitman County officials, Amtrak, and Canadian National Railway. I was honored to participate in the stop's ribbon-cutting this week.

Projects on Track to Benefit Gulfport, Pascagoula

Two other recently announced projects that promise to generate major community benefits are happening on our Gulf Coast. One is the plan for a pedestrian and bus bridge in downtown Gulfport, which recently received a $2.6 million grant from the Federal Transit Administration to support its early planning and design. Once the bridge is completed over Highway 90, visitors and residents will have access to Jones Park and the Mississippi Aquarium from Gulfport's Multimodal Transportation Center.

Likewise, in Pascagoula, Ingalls Shipbuilding has announced a plan to restore its east bank shipbuilding facilities. The site, which was home to the original Ingalls shipyard, was damaged after Hurricane Katrina. Reopening this site will enable our state's largest private employer to provide a greater shipbuilding capacity when our country needs it. Pursuant to my SHIPS Act, it is now the official policy of the United States to achieve a 355-ship Navy, and skilled Mississippians will be on the frontlines of this mission. I am glad Ingalls has decided to continue its investment in our Gulf Coast.

These designations, plans, and progress points are encouraging for our state and our local communities. With better transportation options, business incentives, and development projects, Mississippians will have more opportunities for work and greater access to services they need.

Timber thinning is important

The thinning of trees is an important step in the wildlife management process, and it helps improve your pocketbook.

My mother has part of her family's land in Montgomery County. It has been in her family since 1833. Part of the land (25 acres) that was farmland in 1937 (that is the oldest aerial photo I have found) has grown up in a thick stand of green ash and sweetgum. Another part (30 acres) was growing a mixed stand of pine and upland hardwoods. Some of the oaks had died as a result of stress.

Nevertheless, my mother is primarily interested in income and I am primarily interested in wildlife. To reach both goals, we needed to do a "junk" cut or timber harvest.

First, let's discuss what steps we took. We hired a forester to mark the trees which were to be cut. On the upland site, he marked sweetgum and pine that were very old or were crooked and taking up sunlight, nutrients, and space from the bottomland site, he marked primarily sweetgum, sycamore, green ash, and oaks that were old and diseased. He also marked trees that were too close together so the stand would be evenly spaced and each tree had plenty of water, nutrients, and sunlight.

Both high-quality and low-quality trees are good for wildlife, but the high-quality tree is the best income producer. Small trees are unsuitable for sawtimber because they are too small. In 10 to 15 years from now, both types of trees will be big enough for sawtimber, but only the quality tree will be used for sawtimber. The crooked pine tree will be used for pulpwood. It will be worth only about $7.00/ton, whereas the straight pine tree will be worth about $24.00/ton. Historically, the first tree will have increased in value at an annual compound rate of 5 percent, whereas the second will have done so at 19 percent. As investments, one is great, the other is a loser. You want to elimi-

Ochsner Medical Center – Hancock Provides Tips on Stroke Prevention and Treatment

SEA COAST ECHO

BAY ST. LOUIS – According to the American Stroke Association, someone in the United States has a stroke every 40 seconds. That translates into nearly 800,000 people each year. In addition, every four minutes, someone dies of a stroke.

Getting that message out has been a primary focus this month as May is Stroke Awareness Month. Continued education on warning signs of symptoms is vital to prevention of one of the leading causes of death and disability in the United States.

Dr. Joseph Tarsia, Vascular Neurology, Ochsner Comprehensive Stroke Center, says the simplest way to help prevent a stroke is to take care of yourself and maintain a healthy lifestyle by eating well and exercising daily.

“Patients need to control the diseases that make them more likely to have a stroke, like high blood pressure, diabetes and high cholesterol,” explains Dr. Tarsia. “It is also extremely important to also avoid smoking, drinking in excess and using illicit drugs.”

A stroke occurs when a blood vessel in the brain “clogs” up, depriving brain tissue of blood and nutrients it needs. The result is that thousands of brain cells begin to die almost immediately and that affects motor skills, coordination, speech and comprehension. It is extremely important that someone who is showing signs of stroke remembers the acronym F.A.S.T. to lower the risk of death or disability:

F is for face – is your face drooping?

A is for arms – can you lift both arms?

S is for speech – are you slurring your words?

T is for time, call 9-1-1 immediately because with a stroke, time is brain.

Symptoms include: sudden onset weakness and/or numbness in one side of the body, difficulty speaking or comprehending others, slurred speech, facial droop, difficulty with vision, imbalance or severe headache.

For those individuals suffering from a stroke, Ochsner Health System has developed a unique Telestroke Program, which joins experts from both system and partner facilities to consult immediately with Ochsner vascular neurologists 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year, using telemedicine equipment to determine the best treatment options for stroke patients. The Ochsner Telestroke Program includes more than 58 participating hospitals throughout Louisiana and Mississippi.

Since the Telestroke service began in 2015, more than 160 patients have been treated at Ochsner Medical Center (OMC) –Hancock via this technology. Treatment for stroke symptoms is often a race against the clock. The National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke found that stroke patients who received tissue plasminogen activator (t-PA) within three hours of the beginning of stroke symptoms were more likely to recover from their stroke with little or no disability. Because of this partnership, Ochsner’s Telestroke neurologists are able to see patients as they arrive at OMC-Hancock and they are able to evaluate and prescribe t-PA treatment more quickly. This timeliness has resulted in a Telestroke t-PA utilization rate more than four times the national average and a reduced complication rate.

“In addition to tPA, this program has allowed us to immediately identify candidates who can be treated with a minimally invasive procedure called clot thrombectomy, allowing a trained specialist to remove the clot directly. This procedure has been shown to make a marked recovery in the most severely disabling types of stroke. New evidence indicates that treating individuals within 24 hours from the onset of their symptoms still have an increased opportunity for improvement. With the Telestroke process, quick identification and taking steps down this pathway very early are critical for the good outcomes this procedure can provide,” says Dr. Tarsia.

“The TeleStroke program has had an incredibly positive impact on the quality of care we’re able to deliver to our patients when every moment counts,” said Dr. Andrew Adams, primary care physician at Ochsner Medical Center - Hancock. “The ability to couple our expertise with that of Ochsner’s renowned neurology team provides the Hancock community with a level of sophisticated and comprehensive stroke care that allows patients to stay close to home for care.”

Ochsner is the only program within Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas listed in the U.S. News & World Report Best Hospitals ranking across four specialty categories, where it is number 24 in the nation for neurology and neurosurgery.

Little Theatre Guild Selects New Season

SEA COAST ECHO

The season will open with the iconic western “The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance.” The movie starred Jimmy Stewart, John Wayne, and Lee Marvin. This will mark the first stage western on the Gulf Coast stage in decades. “This is the perfect western story,” stated Guild member Irv Hansen. The show is scheduled to open on September 21st.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre Guild committee recently recommended a new season of shows for the 2018-2019 schedule. The Little Theatre Board of Directors has approved their selections. The Guild has the task of selecting plays for the show season. The Guild meets monthly to discuss a variety of possibilities for the Little Theatre productions. The Guild reads plays that have been submitted by directors or suggested by the community and go through a report process to narrow the choices. The Guild committee members are Sylvia Schneller, Clayton Pennylegion, Bernie Cullen, Jen Coulter, and Irv Hansen. The Guild is open to any Theatre member who can commit to the readings and the meetings.

The new season will also include “Shadowlands” a true story of the life of writer C.S. Lewis based on the movie starring Anthony Hopkins and Debra Winger, “Farce of Habit”, a hilarious comedy, 3rd Annual “Mississippi Writes Original” as the annual Tennessee Williams’ Tribute, and back by popular demand by the community “Twelve Angry Men.”

The new season will innovate new shows and show times. The season will add “Sordid Lives “ a comedy that will leave you laughing , “Side Man” an outstanding Pulitzer prize finalist, and the first Readers Theater “Who’s Afraid of Virginia Woolf.”

The additional shows will be offered at a significant discounted ticket price. Some shows this season will be performed on an additional Saturday matinee.

The theater season will also include the Christmas Live Re-Enactment of the Nativity, the Valentine dinner theater, and the 11th Annual Stella Yelling Contest. The Little Theatre website has more information about the shows including show dates. For more Theatre information call 228-467-9024 or go to www.bsllt.org.

nate the losers now to increase available water, nutrients, and sunlight for your income producers.

I write this column because of the strong need for good quality forest management in Mississippi. It is good for wildlife (and keeps my mother happy). Plus, you can make your forests/wildlife habitat into superb investments. This won’t happen unless you do something now and do it right. And you can teach your children or grandchildren how to do it.

So, by taking care of your big-dollar trees, you’ll protect the environment, create forests that will regularly produce income, produce all the timber we need, and maintain great areas to hunt and view wildlife.

Tiki Delivery opens tomorrow, participating restaurants announced

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

On Sunday, May 6, Tiki Delivery, a food delivery service, is scheduled to open for business at 11 a.m.

This week, Tiki Delivery owner Anthony Depreo announced the names of the first three participating restaurants: Rum Kitchen, 200 North Beach and Dan B’s.

“Tiki Delivery is a web-based delivery service that allows local restaurants to have their online menu items delivered to customers at their residence or business for a small fee,” Depreo said. “It enables restaurants to provide an additional service to their customers. Our goal is to get orders delivered to our customers in the most efficient time and in the same quality as if it was received from the restaurant.”

This is a soft opening and will begin in Bay St. Louis, but Depreo has plans to expand service to Waveland, Diamondhead and Pass Christian.

The hours for the soft start – which will run from now until May 31 – will be Monday through Sunday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. On June 1, Depreo said, he anticipates adding more restaurants and switching to summer hours.

The delivery fee will be $3. Learn more about Tiki Delivery through Facebook at Tiki Delivery and www.tikidelivery.com.

Testing

tion be changed. The difference was staggering. Within a few days, he recovered and has been fine ever since. “You saved his life,” I often tell Bob.

Here’s another example: I use an old-style antihistamine, chlorpheniramine when I can’t sleep. It’s old, cheap and over-the-counter. When my wife Ginny was having insomnia, I suggested she try it. It made her bounce off the walls.

As it turns out, chlorpheniramine requires a genetically coded liver enzyme to work. I have it. My wife doesn’t. So we had dramatically different results.

The same is true with statins, diabetes drugs, blood thinners, ADHD meds, blood pressure meds, mood stabilizers and many other commonplace drugs. Hundreds of thousands of Mississippians are taking the wrong drugs wasting millions and furthering disease. What a shame.

During my experience with my son, I stood facing a psychiatrist with my son’s genetic test results in my hand. “Mr. Emmerich, you seem to think I don’t believe in genetic testing. I do. It is established technology,” the psychiatrist assured me.

I wanted to ask him, “Then why did you not use it in the first place instead of allowing my child to suffer when a simple genetic test could have avoided that.” Instead, I shyly thanked him and walked away.

My heart goes out to all the people who are suffering from the wrong medication. As a practical matter, Mississippi could save millions in Medicaid expenses if they took an aggressive stance toward genetic testing. Less trial and error. Fewer hospital visits. Better health.

I just recently covered a class action trial regarding the East Mississippi Correctional Facility (EMCR). Ninety percent of the prisoners there suffer from mental illness, causing bedlam. The prison is a disaster.

Imagine, if all those prisoners were genetically tested and given medications that actually worked based on their enzyme makeup. Many lives would be saved. Not to mention a huge reduction in prison costs.

Bob’s company, Medical Spark, has struggled to break through the monolithic state bureaucracy that runs at a snail’s pace. It’s tough sloggling attempting to get a conservative state to adopt cutting edge technology.

Even so, his company recently tested a sample of 137 patients at two Veterans Administration nursing homes. The results show a third of the vets lack enzymes that would allow common medications to work properly.

The testing was done by GeneTrait, a Columbia, Missouri, company that is owned by its founders. Their expertise is taking complex genetic information and reducing it to easy-to-understand guidelines to assist physicians in prescribing the right meds.

Let’s take Plavix, a common anticoagulant, for example.

GeneTrait’s testing found that only a third of the nursing home patients had the enzyme variant, CY2PC19, to process Plavix correctly. Two-thirds had either an under-response or over-response, which can lead to either heart attack or stroke. Similar results were found with a wide variety of common drugs for common illnesses. A third of the patients lacked the enzyme to metabolize Celebrex, a common pain reliever.

Half the patients lacked the enzyme to process respiridone, a common prescription for bipolar disorder. And so on.

In essence, genetic testing can vastly improve medical results by getting the right medications to the right people.

This will improve results and save money. But change is slow. There is resistance in the medical community. People fear change. Technology can be threatening.

But change will come. It’s hard to stop progress. A good first step would be for the Mississippi Department of Medicaid to embrace genetic testing and designate it a covered procedure.

man," LaFontaine said.

The AG's opinion also affects Hancock County Utility Authority board chairman, Bay St. Louis Councilman Josh DeSalvo.

DeSalvo on Friday confirmed that he would be announcing his plans to resign from the board at Tuesday's city council meeting in Bay St. Louis.

The board approved a motion to accept LaFontaine's resignation from the Utility Authority Board.

LaFontaine said the water issue is "quite a challenge."

"Other members of the Utility Authority constantly stay on us (Waveland) about buying water," LaFontaine said. "Like I've said before – and I even brought documentation to prove it – I've been told that Waveland does not have the highest water bills out of the members of the authority. I've brought the ordinances and I've proved the person wrong that was saying that. He did a study and wasted his time doing it because he didn't have the facts. I provided him the facts and showed that Waveland does have it. Too many times I've had to hear if Waveland buys water it will lower everybody's rates."

LaFontaine said – on the sewer side – Waveland pays a "little over $200,000."

"My only thing is, these other entities that are using those (plants) are having their customers pay less than our customers, I think there should be an increase there," LaFontaine said. "I think they should increase and help support the sewer side instead of constantly hollering that we need to buy water. Now, we are looking at the water and it was nothing that was forced on us. The mayor and board are looking at it to see if this is something we can do for our citizens and possibly lower our rates. I'm not going to sit back and watch Waveland residents pay more and, in turn, have other members of the authority lower their rates on the backs of us."

The board unanimously approved Mayor Mike Smith's appointment of Waveland Public Works Director Brent Anderson to the Hancock County Utility Authority.

Later in the meeting, Anderson presented the study he conducted evaluating what it "accurately" cost for the city of Waveland to produce 1,000 gallons of water.

LaFontaine said nothing would change as far as personnel, vehicle maintenance, and office supplies costs. The city is just looking at how much it would cost to purchase water from the Hancock County Utility Authority, he said. The city would also still maintain the wells and a water operator to ensure water quality. Anderson is the city's water operator.

Anderson's chart included calculations for the past three years.

In 2016, 211,258,000 gallons of water were sold with a direct cost of $106,430. In 2017, 232,855,000 gallons of water were sold with a direct cost of $129,176. Year-to-date, the city has sold 103,579,000 gallons with a direct cost of $52,634.

Based on Anderson's calculations, Waveland City Comptroller Ron Duckworth said the city is paying about $.51 per 1,000 gallons.

Hancock County Utility Authority Executive Director David Pitalo told the board that – based on the authority's proposed budget for 2017-2018, which he provided to the board – providing water to the city would cost about $.74 or $.75 per 1,000 gallons. In his proposal, the total gallons calculated was 230,760,000 gallons at an annual cost of $175,000.

Duckworth said Friday that – based on his interpretation of Pitalo's schedule – selling the water at $.75 per 1,000 gallons would "generate a positive cash flow for HCUA of $9,711."

The board took no action, since Tuesday's discussion was for informational purposes only.

"There's no possible way that Waveland can produce water to what you can buy it for," LaFontaine said. "One way or the other, this puts that to rest, which is what we wanted to do. Put it in a public meeting and show that we can buy it cheaper or produce it cheaper. We agreed to do this because we owed that much to the citizens to see if we can save us any money and obviously, these numbers would not save us anything."

The next aldermen meeting is scheduled for May 16 at 6:30 p.m.

father Palwinder Gill, was a successful business owner in Marrero. His green card was revoked after someone falsely reported to the government that he had only married his ex-wife -- whom he divorced before marrying Melissa nearly a decade before -- so that he could stay in the country.

"I'm kind of bitter about it, as you might imagine," Brittany said. "They were hateful when they got rid of my father. It's been a struggle for a long time. My mother struggles to this day. They left her alone with two small children, one of whom is handicapped."

Even worse, she said, Palwinder sat in a jail cell in New Orleans for six months before he was sent off to India.

A long process

"They told me it was up to me to get him back," Brittany said. "I was a kid -

- I didn't know what to do. "I do want people (who are in the same boat) to know it's not a hopeless situation. It's a hard one, for sure. It has been a two-year process with immigration. There's lots of paperwork, and it's very expensive. I was uneducated on how to get my father back here properly. I would have done it sooner if I had known better."

"I had to get a joint-sponsor to help me get him back here. ... You have to show you can financially support him and ourself and no one will have to rely on the government or be on Medicare for any reason."

"If one thing's not right on the paperwork, they send it back and it can take another three-to-six weeks to go back through the process. There are a lot of documents, a lot of paperwork, it's just a lot."

Still, she said, the expression hasn't dimmer her view of the United States.

While there has been a long-standing national debate over America's immigration policies, "I'm not at all political,"

Brittany said, "but we don't hate immigrants here in America. We just want people to do it the right way."

She just wishes there were more provisions for the families left behind when someone gets deported, for whatever reason.

Although the family all communicates via telephone and the internet, Brittany and Matthew haven't actually been with their father since 1998.

"I wish there was an easier step, an easier process for those who are here."

Today, she's just happy her daddy is coming back home.

"I'm so happy it's over," she said. "I never thought it would take this long, but at least we finally got the answer we wanted."

SSC head football coach retires from coaching

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

On Tuesday, May 1st, Saint Stanislaus head football coach Jeff Jordan stunned school officials with his retirement from coaching.

Jordan, who has been coaching for more than 30 years, has decided to retire from education and chase his lifelong dream of being a self-employed business owner.

Jordan commented, "I have decided to retire from coaching and education. I had a great run of 30 years. I wouldn't trade anything for those 30 years. The most difficult part of this decision is leaving the young men and the coaching staff. There will always be a special place in my heart for the Rocks. This was honestly the most difficult decision I've ever made in my professional career. I have a chance to pursue a dream that I have had for quite some time. I would like to thank the administration and the faculty of Saint Stanislaus for their mission and what they stand for. It truly is a special institution."

Jordan went be going far as he has plans to open his business in the downtown area of Bay St. Louis. He did not discuss what type of business he plans to open.

Jordan is completing his third year at SSC. He came over to SSac from Louisiana as an offensive line coach under Bill Conides. He helped lead the Rick's to the Class 4A state title game in 2015 and the second round of the Class 4A state playoffs in 2016.

In 2017, he took the reins of the program when Conides left SSC to become the head football coach and athletic director at Denham Springs High School.

In 2017, Jordan led the Rocks to a 6-6 record and advanced to the second round of the Class 4A state playoffs with a redesigned SSC team.

SSC principal Gary Blackburn stated, "I consider it a blessing to have had the opportunity to work with Jeff Jordan this past year. Jeff is a great teacher, coach, colleague, and mentor to all the young men he worked with in football, the classroom, on mission trips, and in the daily life of our school. While I am sorry to see him go, I am happy he isn't going far and I know he will continue to support our school community, especially our students. I know that Coach Jordan will continue to be a valuable member of our school community for the rest of this school year. In large part due to his leadership, Jeff leaves behind an excellent coaching staff. I have confidence in each of these men and I know they will continue to live out the mission of our school through what they teach in the classroom and on the football field.

"Some members of our current staff have expressed interest in the position and I know we may have some interest from coaches not currently on our staff. It is my intention to name a new head coach as soon as we believe we have identified the best person to fill this important role in our school community."

Jordan will complete the year in the classroom at Saint Stanislaus and is assisting with spring training and the summer workouts until his replacement is identified.

OLA's Callee Breland & Kati Albright capture golf championship

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The Our Lady Academy Crescents' golf team finally broke through to claim their first Class I state championship after finishing state runner-up the last four years.

The Crescents sport a team of Loyola University of New Orleans signee Callee Breland and Katie Albright.

The state golf tournament for Class I was held at the Tupelo Country Club on May 1-2.

OLA head coach Keith Breland commented, "This season was a remarkable one for the girls. We really started to swing the club consistently and with placement in the last three weeks or so. Callee got sick before the season started and she lost some weight which affected her. Katie has been working extremely hard with the Rob Noel Golf Academy to perfect her swing. The girls have really worked extremely hard so this accomplishment has come as a result of that."

On the first day of competition, Callee Breland shot a 76 and Albright recorded a 92.

Coach Breland saw the need to get some more practice in after the first day of competition. He stated, "We did not have a good day putting on the first day. We stayed after the first day was done for a little over an hour working on our putting. It paid off as we had a much better second day on the course."

On the second day of competition, Callee Breland shot a 75 and Albright broke her total down to an 89.

OLA had a two-day total of 332 which edged

Madison-St. Joseph by 24 strokes which finished with a total of 356. In third was Sacred Heart at 372 followed by Tupelo Christian 390, Walnut 435, and New Site with 484.

Callee Breland was low medalist in Class I placing first with her total of 151 and Albright was sixth overall with her 181.

This is OLA's first state championship in golf.

Coach Breland ended, "The girls performed very well this year. We want to thank our home course The Bridges in Bay St. Louis, as well as, Diamondhead and Pass Christian Isles for allowing us to practice. We also extend tremendous thanks to Our Lady Academy administration, faculty and staff who worked with the girls to ensure they were able to compete on the course while also maintaining their academic requirements. Finally, I thank both Callee and Katie for all their hard work and dedication throughout the season."

The Hancock Lady Hawks placed fifth out of 16 teams in the Class 6A girls state tournament with a two-day total of 374. D'Iberville won the title with a total of 319 followed by Ocean Springs at 331, Starkville 341, and Warren Central at 343.

Katelynn Altese finished fifth overall with a two-day total of 165 while Peyton Russell was 32nd with a total of 200 and Whitney Eakins was 34th with a 211

Favre and nephew of County Administrator Eddie Favre -- a "nepotism" issue.

Before voting on the matter, board of supervisors President Blaine LaFontaine asked board attorney Gary Yarborough to seek opinions on the matter from the Attorney General's office and the Mississippi Ethics Commission.

According to Attorney General Jim Hood's opinion made public this week, "the proposal states that (Casey Favre) would be employed as a medical director and operate a clinic for the prisoners of the county jail and a clinic for medical services for the employees of the sheriff's department (sic). It is also the intention that (Favre) eventually operate a clinic for medical services for all county employees, including both lab services and employee pharmacy services."

Hood opined that the sheriff did not have the authority to hire a physician, nurse practitioner or nurses as full-time employees to provide health care to prisoners. Rather, that would fall under the purview of the board of supervisors.

The AG's office also opined that although "a board of supervisors may authorize the sheriff to establish a program for prisoners to receive non-emergency medical attention," the stature is "limited to providing medical services to prisoners with the authority of the board of supervisors."

It further opined that "Neither the board of supervisors nor the sheriff has the authority to contract with a health care services provider to provide services directly to employees of the county."

While the county is allowed to establish a "community hospital" under state statute, according to the opinion, there is "no additional stature that would authorize a county to operate a healthcare clinic outside of the community hospital framework."

As to whether Favre's status as a school board president or nephew of the county administrator would make a difference, the AG determined both points were "moot," since the "proposed plan is not authorized."

"However," the opinion said, "if the board of supervisors contracts with the nephew pursuant to the authority outlined (in state stature) to serve as a nurse practitioner ... there would be no violation of the nepotism statue as the nephew would not be serving in one of the five prohibited positions enumerated in Section 25-1-53."

It further said that if Favre "is contracted simply as a nurse practitioner while also serving as a school board trustee, no violation of the separation of powers doctrine would exist as both positions are in the executive branch of government and a nurse would not be exercising core executive powers."

The AG's office also urged the board to further consult the state ethics commission on any potential conflicts of interest.

LaFontaine deferred comment on the matter Friday, but said the board plans to discuss the situation in detail at its meeting on Monday.

He's such a great little fella with a lovely personality," Dunbar Village elder Betty Gillan said of 18-year-old volunteer Jacob McCoy. For the past year, Jacob has been a volunteer member of the rehab services unit at Dunbar Village in Bay St. Louis.

He is the son of Michael and Jennifer McCoy of Pass Christian and a senior at Pass Christian High School.

Jacob said he was able to volunteer at Dunbar Village through his Allied Health class.

Chrissy Flynn, director of rehab at Dunbar Village, said the school sends students every semester to learn about jobs in the medical field.

"Students have the opportunity to shadow medical facilities and see what it's like," Jacob said. "I chose Dunbar Village because I've been to this type of facility."

During the first semester, while taking his health class, Jacob visited Dunbar Village twice a week.

During the second semester, he has volunteered every day as community service.

"I love people and working with people," he said. "It's a good opportunity to see what I want to do in the future."

In addition to observing Dunbar Village's physical therapy staff, he also helps elders walk to the physical therapy room and visits with them.

"It's a good experience for a young student to have," Jacob said. "There's a lot of loving and caring people here. I get to be friendly with all of them, walk in, and see smiles on faces."

On Wednesday, Flynn and Dunbar Village's Matt Johns surprised Jacob with a special award during senior awards night at Pass Christian High School.

The award said, "You have touched more lives than you will ever know. Your compassion and caring will never go unnoticed. Thank you for the impact you have made in the lives of others."

After graduation, Jacob said, he plans to attend Pearl River Community College and then the University of Southern Mississippi. He plans to pursue nursing or physical therapy.

However, he also plans to continue visiting the elders at Dunbar Village "as long as they'll let me."

Flynn described Jacob's work with the elders as "amazing."

"He has fit right in here," she said. "He relates to them and relaxes them. He is also eager to help us. He has built relationships here and has conversations with the elders. He has become a part of our team and we're going to miss him. I can't wait to see what he does. He's going to do great things."

Johns said Jacob "came in here with long hair like a deer in the headlights."

"Over the year, he has turned into a leader and improved," Johns said.

Gillan said Jacob is "very sociable and kind."

"He makes the older people smile," she said. "He has helped me with my therapy. He's a great young man and I'm going to miss him. We will need him to come back here and visit."

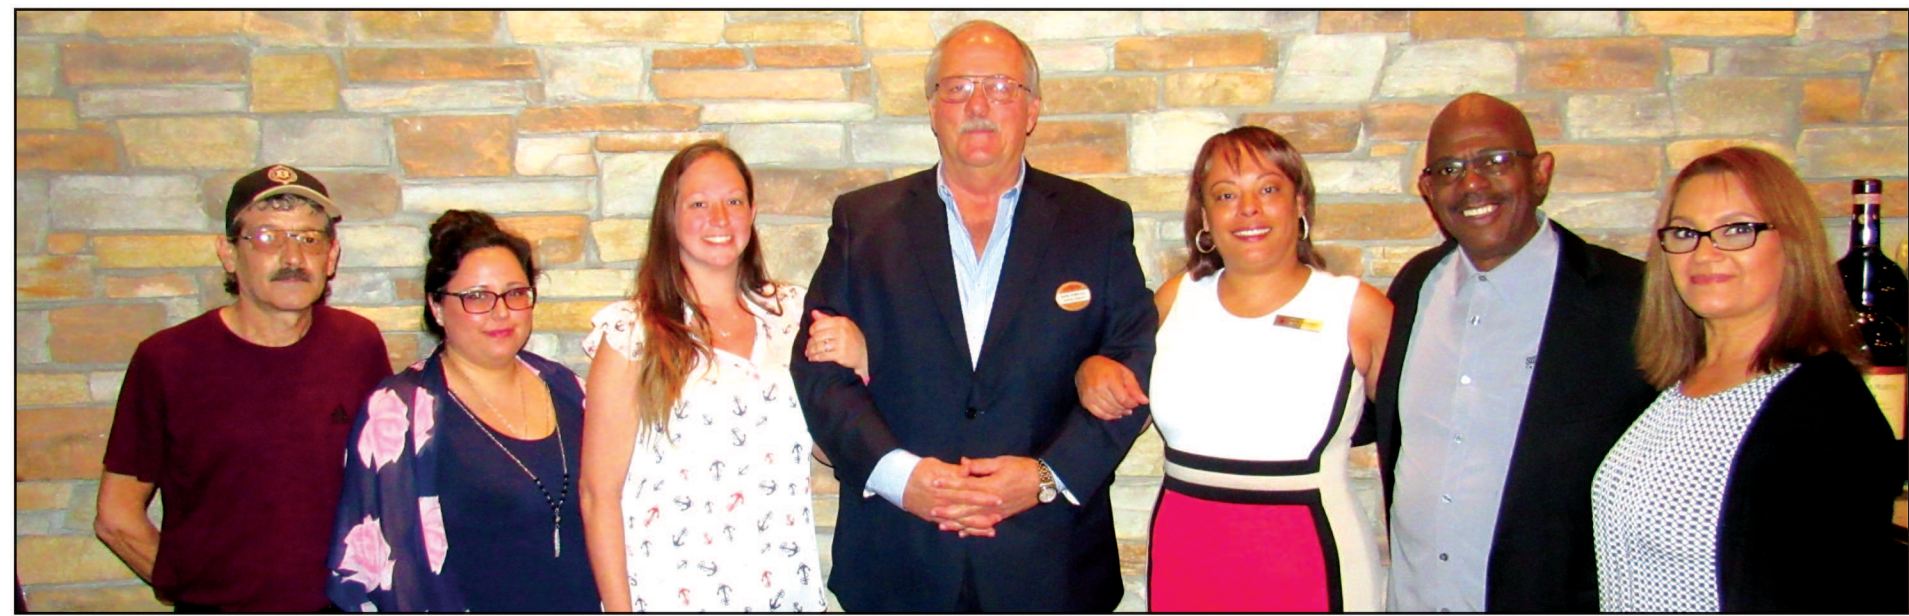

Jacob said he's heard many "interesting stories" from the elders.

"I've learned a lot, they have good life experiences," he said. "They're very welcoming and always want to talk. It's always great to visit and laugh with everybody. I'm very thankful and grateful to be here."

Jacob brings smiles to Dunbar Village's furry resident, Max.

Four Mississippi Public School Students Selected as 2018 Presidential Scholar Semifinalists

SEA COAST ECHO

JACKSON, Miss – The Mississippi Department of Education announced Tuesday that a Pass Christian High School student is among four Mississippi public school students who have been selected semifinalists for the 2018 U.S. Presidential Scholars Program.

The U.S. Presidential Scholars Program honors the nation's most distinguished graduating high school seniors.

Mississippi's

Presidential Scholar semifinalists for 2018 include:

• Darryl A. Skinner, Pass Christian High School, Pass Christian School District

• Richard H. Grimes, Germantown High School, Madison County School District

• Herleen Kaur, Clinton High School, Clinton Public School District

• Wei Li, Vancleave High School, Jackson County School District

Mississippi's semifinalists were selected from among 5,300 candidates nationwide. A total of 630 high school seniors were selected as semifinalists for 2018. These students form the pool from which the 2018 U.S. Presidential Scholars will be chosen.

The 2018 Presidential Scholars will be selected on the basis of their accomplishments in many areas – academic and artistic success, leadership, and involvement in school and the community – and represent excellence in education.

"I am incredibly proud of our Mississippi semifinalists and congratulate them for earning this national recognition," said Dr. Carey Wright, state superintendent of education. "Our schools have done an outstanding job helping these students reach their greatest potential, and I look forward to seeing what these future leaders accomplish after high school."

fies professionalism and dedication to his work. MWPCOA members submit nominations which are reviewed by Association's Board of Governors. A final selection committee visits the operator's facility and conducts an interview from which the final recipient is chosen.

Higginbotham is the Director of Operations for the Diamondhead Water and Sewer District. Regarding the nomination, Higginbotham said, "I feel humbled and honored. I would like to thank my Lord and Savior, my family, and my district team. I enjoy helping people and the environment."

Taz is a bouncy, happy fella, who appears to be a Boston Terrier mix of sorts. He is still a puppy at approximately 11 months old, but he is unlikely to grow any larger. We love his little ears, big grin, and abundance of love for everyone he meets. ?? He most definitely exhibits all of the qualities one would look for in a BFF or a family pooch. He has been great with the children visiting the shelter, and gets along well with the other dogs in his living area. He is affectionate and energetic, and since he is a medium size dog, he would be a wonderful pal for school aged children and older. We are not sure yet if Taz is crate or house trained, but he is smart and eager to please, so he will be easy to train. We invite you to come by the shelter at 7175 Texas Flat Rd, Kiln, and meet Taz. He is a cutie with tons of personality. Call 466 4516 for more information on this sweet boy, and visit our Facebook page, Hancock County Animal Shelter, MS, to see more pictures of him, and of the many other wonderful, adoptable animals looking for their forever homes.

The government's business is your business.

And Mississippians count on their newspapers to keep apprised of public notice advertising.

Half of Mississippi adults recall reading or seeing public notice advertising in a local or state newspaper.

And almost half (46%) of adults who have seen public notice advertising prefer to receive them in a printed newspaper, much higher than any other source.

Most Mississippians (87%) say keeping the public informed through public notices and legal advertising is an important requirement for government agencies. And the preferred method of receiving these notices is in a printed newspaper along with their associated websites.

According to a 2013 Advertising and Media Use Survey*, legal ads in printed newspapers have a much higher credibility than other media.

Over 1.5 million Mississippians read their local newspaper. Whether in print, online or on the go, newspapers are the leading source of information for Mississippi.

THE HURRIER I GO THE BEHINDER I GET

Are you familiar with the old saying, "the hurrier I go, the behinder I get." It came from Lewis Carroll the author of children's book Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and Through the Looking-Glass. These are well known favorites of children and adults alike and have been around since the 1800's.

There are many people just as I am and this statement fits all of us well. Most of us tend to take on more responsibility than we should and when deadlines approach for these jobs to be done we get in a hurry up mode and frantically start worrying about what we are going to do.

For me I have found that most of my problems come from distractions, and then I drop off into complacency. There are many things I want and need to accomplish, however I have allowed myself to become involved with other insignificant side items. Once I do this I become anxious about completing the tasks before me and many times accept the final outcome much below what I know I could have done.

As Christians and church members we go about God's work pretty much in the same way. We meet and see people every day that we should be sharing the good news about Jesus with and we pass them by saying, "I'll talk to them later." As with our projects at home and work, our Christian witnessing becomes something we put off until we are pushed into a corner about talking to people. Then we feel the anxiety and frustration because of our own inept attitudes. Witnessing becomes a chore instead of a joy we get when we share the gospel. People are receptive but because we feel unworthy or unmotivated, our friends and family suffer by not having someone speak to them about their eternal salvation.

All of us put things off until tomorrow that need to be done today. During my lifetime I have seen very few people that are so organized that all of their day follows a patterned routine. Even these non-procrastinators slip occasionally and fall behind.

We need to realize that each and every day we need to talk with Lord and ask Him to guide us and direct in the way He wants us to go. If we will do this then our days will be much happier and more fruit will come from our labor. We are told in Matthew 5:14, "You are the light of the world..."

With this being said we need to go forth and do the Lord's work and it doesn't matter where we are or what we are doing. We should also complete our earthly task on time and not allow distractions to take away our goals. Should we do this I firmly believe we would become more organized and less complacent.

Prayer: O Lord guide me in all that I do. Lead me in the paths that you have laid out for me and keep me from worldly objections. Amen.

Mother's Day SCRAMBLED STORY

Read about how Mother's Day started. Number the flowers to show the correct order of the story.

In the U.S., the idea of Mother's Day was first suggested by Julia Ward Howe in 1872 as a day dedicated to peace.

In 1909, Mother's Day services were held in all 46 states plus Canada and Mexico.

In 1908, St. Andrew's Methodist Church in Grafton, West Virginia held a Sunday service honoring mothers.

In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed a resolution establishing Mother's Day.

How many flowers can you find on today's page?

During the 1600s, people in England celebrated a day called "Mothering Sunday." On that day servants were released from work to spend the day with their mothers.

In 1912, West Virginia became the first state to adopt an official Mother's Day.

In 1907, Ana Jarvis passed out carnations at her mother's church in Grafton, West Virginia – one for each mother in the congregation. She did this in memory of her own mother.

One day each spring in ancient Greece, people held celebrations in honor of Rhea, whom they called the Mother of the Gods.

Make a Keepsake Flower for Mom

This little gift is also great for any special woman in your life – your grandmother, aunt, teacher or special friend.

Stuff you'll need:

1. Cut out six flower petals, a center circle, stem and two leaves.

2. On each petal, write a word that describes your mom.

3. Glue a photo of your mom on the center circle. (Ask an adult for a photo that's okay to use!)

4. Write "I love you" on the stem.

5. Glue the flower parts together.
